WASHINGTON, April 1 .- Spring is here. The Forsythia and other early flowers are abloom in the parks and gardens and the willow trees are covered with tiny light green buds. So society is busy planning its spring en tertainments and there is much talk of garden parties, lawn fetes, picnics and other outdoor entertainments that go to make up the "little season" in Washington, always so delightful. The "little season," is that period of social activity that starts with Easter and usually extends through May. It is going to be a very gay season, judging from all the invitations already out and from plans being formed. It will have an aspicious start, too, by a state reception at the White House, the army and navy reception, which was postponed because of the Roma disaster and for which about 4000 invitations were issued. Then there are to be balls, private ones, and others for charity and charity fetes, and lots of good times in short.

MANY CONVENTIONS.

Then spring always brings all sorts conventions and congresses and gatherings of various sorts to town. Washington is extremely popular as a convention city, naturally because of its historical interests and also its beauty in the spring when it is at its very best. Washington in May is love with its many beautiful parks and its famous avenue of gorgeous flower ing cherry trees
